ACOM Health Debuts Latest Chiropractic Practice Management Software; Integrates Seamlessly with Documentation Software

ATLANTA, Georgia, September 21, 2009 – ACOM Health has re-engineered and completely rewritten the Practice Management module of its Chiropractic software suite to streamline and simplify critical front office processes and provide seamless integration with the suite's clinical documentation software, it was announced today by General Manager Mark Firmin.

"This is not an upgrade, it is an entirely new product that has been conceptualized and guided for the last year and one-half by our on-staff chiropractors and chiropractic consultants," Firmin said. "It is a full-featured, highly functional productivity tool that maximizes performance while minimizing staff involvement required to execute key business office tasks. Because it is fully integrated with our Documentation module – the only clinical software built specifically to the Medicare medical necessity standards – it eliminates redundant entry of patient data and records."

The key elements of the new Practice Management module include:

- Scheduling: With point-and-click appointment management
- Billing: Integration with Clinical Documentation Software automatically inputs CPT codes so claims are ready for submission, allowing staff to focus on collections rather than paperwork
- Electronic Patient Records: Patient information available at staff's finger tips
- Practice reports: On all dimensions of the practice, helping doctors manage their livelihoods as well as their patient care

"The emphasis of the new Practice Management software has been simplicity and ease of use," Firmin said. "It allows doctors and their staffs to operate smoothly, professionally and productively without becoming bogged down in technology. We free them to concentrate on the business aspects of the practice, and focus on increasing revenue, something that every doctor needs to do."
